KELOWNA CHILDREN ENJOY THIS "SCHOOL" IN CITY PARK

These children were present for the summer play-ground course at Strathcona park today. Course is held each morning at 9 a.m. for children five years and up.

Standing at the back are the instructors, left to right, Carol Manson, Christine de Mytler, and Louise Yostenson. The course is sponsored by the city parks and recreation department, and includes making puppets, telling stories, drama, and instruction in games. There are 84 children registered at the Strathcona park, and about 30 at the Sutherland park. At the present time, the children are making puppets, and if they have time, will put on a small puppet show, using the puppets which they made themselves.

Organizers feel the courses teach the children a great deal but the emphasis is placed on enjoyment, with the educational aspect a by-product. (Courier Photo)

Kelowna Heads For New Record In Building Rate

Although totals are slightly behind last year, Kelowna is definitely heading for another record year in building.

June 1965 was the biggest building June recorded since 1955.

Total building permit value for June 1965 issued today by William Conn, city building inspector, is $665,607 compared to $622,463 for June of last year.

Cumulative total of building permits issued in Kelowna to the end of June this year is $2,488,942 compared to a total of $2,373,651 to the end of June last year.

In 1964 Kelowna set a record in building with $6,064,693 worth of permits.

In June this year by far the largest single category is in residential building with 71 per cent of the total.

There were 25 permits issued for new residential buildings in the city during June 1965 with one worth $30,000 two worth $17,000, two worth $16,000, three for $15,000, nine worth $14,000, two for $13,000, five worth $12,000 and one permit issued for $10,000.

Next largest single category is for institutional buildings with $154,000 being spent on school buildings. Industrial buildings accounted for a further $69,200 and commercial buildings were constructed or altered to the extent of $48,322.

Wilson Drops Peace Mission Because Of Reds Opposition

LONDON (AP)—The British government announced today it has dropped the time-honored mission to lead a Commonwealth mission in search of a Viet Nam peace settlement, because of Communist opposition.

Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley told the House of Commons in answer to a question: "Her Majesty's government does not intend at the moment to take any further initiative with our Commonwealth partners on Viet Nam."

At the same time Prime Minister Wilson announced that he had invited United Nations Secretary-General U Thant to stop for talks in London on his way back to New York from Geneva.

A spokesman at 10 Downing Street, the prime minister's residence, said the Viet Nam question was one of the main subjects Wilson wanted to discuss with Thant.

The Commonwealth peace mission was proposed by Wilson at the June 17 opening of the 21-country Commonwealth Leaders' conference. Messages were sent to Washington, Moscow, Peking, Hanoi and Saigon asking that the four-man mission be given a hearing in its study of possibilities for convening a Viet Nam peace conference.

Bottomley told questioners: "In the case of Peking and Moscow we have replies which indicate that the mission at this time would not be acceptable. With regard to the authorities in Hanoi, they have neither formally refused nor agreed to accept the mission."

Both Washington and Saigon agreed to receive the group which is composed of Wilson, President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa of Nigeria and Prime Minister Eric Williams of Trinidad and Tobago.

Men And Machines Fight Widespread Forest Fires

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Men and machines were continuing their battle against the elements today as forest fires plague the country and drought-stricken farmers in Ontario and Quebec plead for federal assistance.

Several fires continued to burn out of control in British Columbia and New Brunswick while other sections of Canada reported scattered outbreaks.

Forest officials said Monday no relief was in sight.

Old-Fashioned Dynamite Opens Spanish Bid For Atomic Age

ZORITA, Spain (AP)—A blast of old-fashioned dynamite today signalled Spain's first commercial step into the nuclear age.

Industry Minister Gregorio Lopez began setting off the charges to begin construction for an atomic power station.

The plan, the first of two approved for construction by privately owned utility companies, is designed to produce 1,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy annually when completed in 1971.

Metted in the Guadalupe hills 60 miles east of Madrid, the new project will operate from a water-pressure reactor of a general type already tested in 13 atomic stations in various parts of the world and in U.S. warships.

Officials said some power from the atomic plant here and from another and larger station to be constructed by a second utility company at Santa Maria de Guzman in north-central Spain, could be exported to France and Portugal in case of need.

Repowered jointly by two established Spanish electric companies, the second plant will be of 300,000-kilowatt capacity, as compared with 127,000 for the Zorita station.

Spain has no shortage of uranium for atomic power. Officials recently estimated the national reserves at about 30,000 tons of the atomic-age metal in unmined ore.

BARE-HEADED MEN OF KELOWNA ASKED TO SPORT REGATTA HATS

Mayor Parkinson Monday night at city council asked everyone in Kelowna to help organize the 50th International Regatta by wearing a Regatta Hat.

The event is scheduled for August 11 to 14 inclusive this year.

"There are many people, including myself, who do not normally wear hats, but I think our Regatta hat is the best method we have yet devised to publicize our major tourist attraction."

Wearing them is much better than growing a beard or dressing foolishly. This is a campaign they have come up with in setting off this year's hats just right.

"Our business people particularly, who benefit so much from the annual event, should all be wearing them."

French Nip ECM Hopes

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—French President de Gaulle today paralyzed the European Common Market by recalling France's ambassador to the community in a dramatic move, which has its headquarters here.

The move, claiming a crisis over financing of the market's agricultural policy, put the community into limbo for an indefinite period.

Authoritative sources here said the ambassador, Jean-Marie Hoegner, was "invited by the French government to return to Paris."

While this was not a final breaking-off of diplomatic relations between France and the Common Market, it meant France would not take any active part in the work of the community in the foreseeable future.

Since all decisions of the community's council of ministers must be unanimous, the market now is unable to function.

The French action plunged the Common Market into the most serious crisis it has known since its creation in 1958, and opened up speculation about its continued existence.

It was not known whether the council of ministers meeting fixed for July 26 and 27 would still be held, as it seemed certain France would not attend.

The French action will have immediate and far-reaching consequences, according to observers here.

The Kennedy round of tariff-cutting negotiations in Geneva will not be able to progress without a joint Common Market position on agricultural products.

And moves on the part of the so-called Outer Seven, the European Free Trade Association, for closer links with the Common Market are doomed to failure as long as the market's

Comsat Fights Against Bid To Cut Down Its Authority

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communications Satellite Corporation battled attempts by seven companies today to reduce its authority.

Comsat asked the U.S. Federal Communications Commission to deny claims by the seven companies that the FCC's 13 decision granting Comsat temporary control over the initial U.S. ground stations and certain related equipment and installations.

In a 60-page answer to petitions by the seven communications carriers, asking the FCC to reconsider the May 13 ruling, Comsat said the commission decided correctly that, for a two-year period, Comsat should have sole responsibility for the design, construction and operation of the three stations.

The FCC also said Comsat should assume direction and control of links between the satellite ground stations and earth transmission centers.

Facilities that involve are the facilities that handle communications with the Early Bird satellite, now in orbit between Europe and Africa, 22,300 miles above the Atlantic.

The carriers who have asked for reconsideration are American Telephone and Telegraph Company, General Telephone and Electronics, Hawaiian Telephone Company, ITT Worldcom, RCA Communications, U.S. Independent Telephone Association, and Western Union International.

It's Hot Outside But Not Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—Record low temperatures for July 6 were set Monday night at Toronto, London, Windsor, North Bay, Trenton, Sudbury, Killarney and Muskoka, as temperatures in most of Ontario plunged into the 40s and 30s.

Three water-bombing planes made little progress Monday in New Brunswick against the Temiscouche River fire in the face of strong winds. About 4,000 acres of slash, scrub and new growth has been destroyed.

Heavy weekend rain in Quebec's large area lessened fire danger, and bans on forest travel were lifted in most districts.

LABOR REBUFF

NO OIL FOR TROUBLED WATERS IN VANCOUVER

Strikers Would Rather Fight

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fighting broke out Monday night as 200 defiant union members bedded down on the grounds of a big oil refinery near here.

The unionists vowed that only police could remove them—and only with a fight.

Jerry Le Bourdais, chairman of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (OCA) council at the Shell Oil Company's Burnaby refinery, was dismissed by the company.

He is a leader in the sit-down. Le Bourdais, once described by the New Democratic Party as a "labor agitator," is one of the founders of the Progressive Workers Movement, which openly supports Communist China. He was expelled from the NDP several years ago.

Trouble broke out at the refinery Monday over a dispute involving overtime. The union alleged threats against workers who refused to work overtime. The company denied threats were used, and said it had asked union members to work emergency overtime because of furnace trouble.

A.J. Footo, manager of the refinery, said the action was an illegal strike. Supervisory personnel were manning the refinery.

The 100 union members spent the night in sleeping bags on the refinery grounds, reinforced with food and drink passed over a big iron fence by their wives and sympathizers.

A union member and a company official traded blows in the street in front of the main gate when a taxi bringing food to supervisory personnel manning the refinery was stopped by union members.

In another incident, a company official who took pictures of the union members was chased by workers who kicked his camera along the ground.

"The cops will have to drag us out," Le Bourdais told the union members. "And they won't do that without a fight."

He said union members were demanding a guarantee of no more intimidations, no action against any of the workers and no loss of pay.

"This is what we are taking a stand on and we are not backing off. We have been fooling around long enough."

U.K. Publisher Fires Salvo On 'Fuddy Duddy' Industry

LONDON (CP)—A blistering attack on "fuddy duddy" British industrial management was launched today by Cecil King, publisher of the Daily Mirror, one of Britain's best-selling papers.

There are far too many directors whose technical knowledge extends no further than a set of golf clubs, said King, chairman of the International Publishing Corporation, which publishes the mass-circulation Daily Mirror.

After outlining a number of British competitive failures, King declared: "These failures are not simply due to the attitude of the trade unions—the favorite scapegoats. They are primarily the fault of soft and inefficient management, responsible of positive action."

Addressing corporate shareholders at an annual meeting, King said "there are too many retired generals and admirals enjoying sinecures on industrial boards."

The Daily Mirror, which supports the Labour government, recently carried a series of articles attacking inefficiency in business. King said Britain now is getting a lead from the government on efficiency.

Opposition Won't Let Go Yet Over Dorion Report Passage

OTTAWA (CP)—If Prime Minister Pearson and Chief Justice Frederick Boucher had their disagreement over a passage in the judge's report into the Lester B. Pearson affair would be over and forgotten.

But it may be a long time before leaders of opposition parties in the Commons allow the matter to drop.

As far as the two men are concerned, their disagreement continued Monday when the Queen's Bench Court Justice issued a statement. In it he said he was changing his report to amend the paragraph that Mr. Pearson knew about the involvement of his then parliamentary assistant, Guy Rowland, in early September.

Mr. Pearson had told Parliament and the judge in a letter that he was told only in November of Mr. Rowland's part in trying to get paid for narcotics supplier Rowland.

The judge refused to answer any questions that reporters fired at him after he issued his statement.

"You've got my statement there and that's all," he said.

MAKES NO COMMENT

In Ottawa, Mr. Pearson made no comment at all.

The judge's action, however, brought sharp reaction from both Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and New Democratic Party Chief T. C. Douglas.

Mr. Diefenbaker suggested the commission be recalled and that Mr. Pearson be called to give evidence under oath.

"Canadians want to hear the prime minister of Canada explain the unbelievable," said Mr. Diefenbaker.

But a disappointing aspect of Prime Minister Wilson's regime was that key appointments had too often been made from political expediency.

Among other things King, 64, urged:

—We must root out the boardroom passengers, ignore seniority and promote on ability.

—The trade unions must be given a fair share of the benefit from productivity increases.

—Let the cold wind of competition in lower tariffs and subsidies break up price rings and gentlemen's agreements, and stop molly-coddling the inefficient.

Britain had slipped to second place in ship-building, behind Japan, and it took three to six times as long to build a house here than in the United States.

"The creation of efficiency is the function of management, and talk of industrial partnership is just wasteful thinking," said King. "In the real world there are two sides to industry—management and men—and each negotiates as best he may. You cannot blame the men of their leaders for taking advantage of weak management."

Kenya's Press Raps Philip

NAIROBI (AP)—Prime Philip came under heavy criticism in the Kenya press today for counselling patience in the Rhodesia question during a recent speech.

"Who does Prime Philip think he is?" asked the East African Standard in an editorial.

"Prime Philip is not renowned for the correctness of his behavior," he should be seen but not heard, or confine himself to grandiose platitudes about the arts, sciences and other airy topics, leaving politics to the politicians."

The Daily Nation declares: "The man who cares for freedom in Rhodesia must not feel inhibited by the duke's station in life to oppose in the strongest possible terms the stand he has taken in Rhodesia."

Pushed Pupils On Tranquilizers

VANCOUVER (CP)—A report of a committee of the Vancouver school board says some elementary school children are using tranquilizers because of pressures to do well.

The mental health committee said in a report to the board Monday night many parents are apparently putting pressure on their children because there is a growing pressure in society to succeed.

It said about 200 children are using tranquilizers—a ratio of about one in 200 students.

The children taking the pills usually had parents who were ambitious or neurotic. They felt they had to keep up with the standard of the district or intended their children to have a university education whether they were capable of it or not.

"There must be a great deal of pressure being applied, otherwise this situation would not have arisen," said Mrs. Betsy McDonald, committee chairman.

The committee asked the board whether "ungraded" classes should be extended to ease these pressures. In these classes, used experimentally in one school here, students are promoted to Grade 2 only when they are ready—whether it be in six months or 18.

Many Inquiries Flooding In On B.C.'s New Medical Plan

Premier Bennett said in Victoria organizers of British Columbia's new medical plan are receiving as many as 10,000 letters of inquiry a day. "We expected interest," said the premier. "But this medicare plan is going like a whirlwind."

It shows there was a great need for such a voluntary plan in this province.

Italian Courts At New Stage In Pursuance Of Sophia Loren

ROME (AP)—Italy brought Academy Award actress Sophia Loren and movie producer Carlo Ponti to trial today in a Rome criminal court on bigamy charges.

The court formally opened the case and then, after a 30-minute session, granted the movie couple's request for a postponement. The next session was set for Oct. 21.

Neither Miss Loren nor Ponti was in court. They are doing film work outside Italy. Their lawyers represented them.

The accusation has pursued the pair since soon after their marriage by proxy at Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, in September, 1957. It was her first marriage and his second.

Ponti, 51, first met Sophia in Rome, 1953, and married her after he married Giuliana Fiastri, daughter of an Italian general, and set about gaining a reputation as a maker of movies.

Miss Loren was 20 then, a tall and shapely beauty whose real name was Sophia Scicolone. She had left the steaming Neapolitan suburb of Pozzuoli to try the road to stardom.

Ponti became her mentor. Within two years, they went to New York. Ponti got a Mexican divorce, then he and Sophia were married by proxy.

ILLEGAL IN ITALY

Divorce is illegal in Italy. The law applies even to the divorce of Italian citizens abroad.

Several private citizens filed bigamy complaints under Article 566 of the Criminal Code, which says "anyone bound by one marriage cannot effect another." The government took up the complaints.

In June, 1962, Ponti was charged with bigamy and Miss Loren with complicity in bigamy. The trial was delayed to await the outcome of a civil action on their tangled marital status.

The prosecution asked the civil court to declare the marriage null, because Ponti was already married. The couple also asked for a decision of nullity, but for a different reason. They said their Mexican proxy marriage was invalid because some of the papers had

Congratulations Sent To Kiwanis

NEW YORK (AP)—Messages of congratulations from President Johnson and Prime Minister Pearson Monday night highlighted the Kiwanis International's 50th anniversary convention at Madison Square Garden.

Some 5,000 Kiwanis Club members and their families from all over North America heard the messages during the second day of the five-day convention.

Pearson's message said in part: "Canadians know and respect Kiwanis contributions to citizenship, freedom and international good will."

Magistrate Isaac Rice of Winnipeg set a precedent for Manitoba courts Monday when he announced he was sponsoring a convicted criminal on new start in life. He said he was moved by the genuine and sincere words of Robert MacDonald, 26, who pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted breaking and entering last week and was remanded to Monday for sentencing.

Dr. Szymanski, who was in charge of the bubble chamber where the explosion took place, said he was at a control panel when he spotted hydrogen feed pressure higher than it should be.

He shut it off, but it still climbed. Then came the blast. "When the debris stopped falling, I got up and saw this fellow waving for me on fire," Dr. Szymanski said. "I don't know who he was."

Three co-workers were burned critically, and were on the danger list at Massachusetts General Hospital.

They were: John Schvett, 22, Harvard graduate student from Tyngsboro, Ohio; Arthur C. Reid, 19, a technical assistant at Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT); Frank Feinberg, 20, of Providence, R.I., an MIT sophomore.

The centre has been jointly operated by Harvard and MIT under grants from the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission since it was completed in 1962.

"Our own personnel conduct per. wrapped him in it, and smothered the flames."

He estimated the damage at $1,000,000.

Livingston said, "we do not know at this time the cause of the explosion."

The blast tore off about one-third of the concrete slabs on the roof and smashed windows and equipment.

Centre staffs had nearly completed a week-long task of filling the chamber with hydrogen liquefied under temperatures of 470 degrees below zero (fabrhen).

The Atomic Energy Commission is trying to determine the cause of the blast.

Scientist Tells Of Blast At Atomic Testing Plant

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—"It's only by the grace of God I'm here. I was lucky," said a shaken Harvard physicist, Joseph Szymanski, today of a blast that wrecked part of the $12,000,000 Cambridge electron accelerator.

Seven colleagues were injured, three critically, in the blast early Monday, as liquid hydrogen was being pumped into a chamber of the centre's big experimental hall.

Dr. Szymanski, who was in charge of the bubble chamber where the explosion took place, said he was at a control panel when he spotted hydrogen feed pressure higher than it should be.

He shut it off, but it still climbed. Then came the blast. "When the debris stopped falling, I got up and saw this fellow waving for me on fire," Dr. Szymanski said. "I don't know who he was."

Vatican Reported Not Happy At Rebaptism Of Luci Johnson

NEW YORK (AP)—The Times reports that the rebaptism of Luci Baines Johnson, the President's younger daughter, on her conversion to Roman Catholicism has roused puzzlement and some regret in Vatican circles.

The Times says in a dispatch from Rome that Vatican sources assume the rite was a "conditional baptism." In cases in which a priest may doubt the validity of an original baptism, he pronounces the "conditional" formula, which begins "If you have not been baptized, I baptize thee."

A source in the Secretariat for Christian Unity, the Vatican organization dealing with relations with other churches, is quoted as saying: "It is regrettable in view of the public interest in this conversion, that it was not made clear whether this was a conditional baptism, and, if so, what was the nature of the doubt that warranted it."

"If there was no such doubt, even a conditional baptism runs counter to the ecumenical spirit and would be even more regrettable."

Miss Johnson was baptized as an infant in the Episcopal (Anglican) church.

In Washington, Rev. James Montgomery said he followed the laws of the church in rebaptizing Miss Johnson. Father Montgomery requested the ceremony, because she wished in consequence to be sure she was meeting the requirements of the church.

The Times also reports a Catholic spokesman in Washington said the decision to rebaptize Miss Johnson was made by Father Montgomery, not by the hierarchy.

In San Francisco, Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike of California called Miss Johnson's rebaptism a "direct slap" at the Anglican church.

BAPTIZED AS INFANT

Bishop Pike said in a sermon Sunday that repetition of baptism "was totally devoid of any sacramental effect, and thus sacrilegious."

He commended Miss Johnson's independence in "making her own religious choice," but said her second baptism was "a deliberate act denigrating another branch of Christendom."

BAPTIZED AS INFANT

Bishop Pike said in a sermon Sunday that repetition of baptism "was totally devoid of any sacramental effect, and thus sacrilegious."

He commended Miss Johnson's independence in "making her own religious choice," but said her second baptism was "a deliberate act denigrating another branch of Christendom."

Miss Johnson was baptized as an infant in the Episcopal (Anglican) church.

In Washington, Rev. James Montgomery said he followed the laws of the church in rebaptizing Miss Johnson. Father Montgomery requested the ceremony, because she wished in consequence to be sure she was meeting the requirements of the church.

The Times also reports a Catholic spokesman in Washington said the decision to rebaptize Miss Johnson was made by Father Montgomery, not by the hierarchy.

In San Francisco, Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike of California called Miss Johnson's rebaptism a "direct slap" at the Anglican church.

ONE OF THE FEATURES of the artificial respiration course in the first aid course at the fire hall last night was "Resuscitator," a life size doll used for the demonstration of the mouth to mouth resuscitation method in the picture on the left.

Francis Jenkin, St. John Ambulance instructor, shows the proper method of holding the nose and mouth of the victim. "It is very important to hold the head well back," he said. "In order to keep the windpipe open. The nose should be held firmly closed, in order to blow into the lungs." On the right, Mr. Jenkin demonstrates the correct way to place the mouth over that of the victim. "You must blow gently into the victim's mouth, until the lungs are fully inflated. Then, remove your mouth and let the air flow out. Keep this up until there is some response from the patient, or until a doctor arrives."

Second First Aid Course Called Success, 55 Attend

They came from all walks of life to attend the first aid course at the fire hall Monday night. The course was a success, with 55 people attending. The course was held in the fire hall, and was a great success. The course was held in the fire hall, and was a great success. The course was held in the fire hall, and was a great success.

The Monday night school produced student interest and education from the month to month resuscitation to the other side of the life saving method. Chief Charles Pettman said the response was encouraging, but added that "hundreds of citizens should take advantage of these opportunities because it might mean the saving of a life some day. One of the most enthusiastic members was G. D. Herbert, of 1041 Ethel Street, who said, "I have been in the fire hall for the first time, and I found it very interesting. I have been in the fire hall for the first time, and I found it very interesting. I have been in the fire hall for the first time, and I found it very interesting."

TINY WOOD PIECE FOULS ARENA ICE

The arena is engulfed in a curtain of polyethylene today, shrouded and dull—but the incident place in town. Word was out—"Maybe skating before tonight!" There was weather trouble—and the main cause of a delay in opening the 1965 summer skating school was unexpected Monday night. Workmen found a piece of wood two feet in length wedged in the frame line. By this morning they had everything corrected and all sides of the building were covered by the plastic curtains. Meanwhile, the skaters from all parts of B.C., Alberta, and the prairie provinces, waited patiently and spent their time sunbathing.

Women Drivers Equal To Men Claims Official Examiner

Women drivers are just as good as men drivers and some are more conscientious. This is the opinion of P. C. Turgoose of Kelowna and he should know—he is the driver's licence examiner.

"Women exercise care when in control of a car," he said today, "and they take great pride in being a careful driver."

Accident statistics show women as the equals of men on the road, he added. Mr. Turgoose said his task is pretty routine, giving learners written tests and eye tests. He also does road tests with applicants for an operator's licence for both cars and motorcycles.

Order 30 Cents Per Capita For New Development Group

Kelowna city council Monday night passed a motion to contribute 30 cents per capita to the new area development council formed Friday night in Summerland. The council was set up primarily to ensure the Okanagan-Summit-Kamloops area is designated as an industrial development area under provisions of the recently-passed federal government act to grant cash to industries opening branch plants in particular regions. Before the motion was passed, Mayor Parkinson detailed to council what happened at the Friday meeting attended by representatives from most communities in the area from Salmon Arm to the border. "I feel Kelowna should take the lead and get this plan for increased industrial expansion out Wednesday," he said. Mayor Parkinson said the city would only have three years to reap the benefits. "It is possible we will only have to contribute 15 cents per capita for this year, but we should budget for 30 cents in 1968. Of course, our contribution depends on other major contributors in the valley contributing a big amount. Letters to federal government officials telling them what happened at the Friday meeting and showing our urgent interest in this project are being prepared now and will be sent out Wednesday," said the mayor.

De Gaulle Sparks Crisis In Common Market

The nations of the European Common Market have had another difference of opinion. This time the dispute is about the financing of agriculture, but behind this, as behind all the previous disputes, the real issue has been how much sovereignty each country is prepared to lose.

The talks among the six nations concerned failed to reach a settlement by the time fixed, June 30. True, this was an agreed deadline, but the Common Market has a long tradition of succeeding late and the failure to meet the deadline, in itself, is of no serious consequence. However there is a growing feeling that General De Gaulle is using the dispute to mount an attack on the principle of a single nation composed of the Common Market members.

This could be the most serious crisis in Common Market affairs so far. As often before, the squabble was about agriculture. As France's partners continue to insist, it was impossible to talk about farming finances without bringing in the wider questions of equity and sovereignty. The crisis, therefore, must be seen for what it is — yet another upheaval in the continuous effort to create a new political entity in the heart of Europe. As virtually every issue from now on will involve some loss of sovereignty, the crises are bound to get bigger and noisier. Each crisis may be the last, leading to the breakup of the whole experiment.

Yet, on past experience, each squabble seems to cement each country more closely with its partners. At some stage the Common Market countries will reach a stage where it will be impossible to go back. This point may now have been reached. Only France can give the answer.

General de Gaulle has brought progress within the ECM to a halt, temporarily at least. In previous crises it has always been the other members who have given way to France. Will they do so again? In the past he has won his successes by use of bulldozing tactics; but this time a matter of principle is involved and surrender to the French viewpoint could vitally affect the kind of community the members desire to make.

For once, de Gaulle is not playing from strength. For the first time the French are completely isolated and positions have been taken up in dramatic circumstances which cannot be abandoned without loss of face. Just why the General should have chosen to precipitate the crisis at this point in time—before the French and German elections—is hard to see. It may be that the first real clue to France's intentions will not be forthcoming until the General speaks.

The Bank Act

Political considerations seem to have weighed quite heavily in the Bank Act revisions proposed by the federal government. The well-informed Buchanan's Bulletin comments that the decision to side-step really significant changes in the legislation appears to be mainly a matter of political expediency; at this time the government prefers to avoid any issue that might prejudice victory at the polls in the event of an early election. The best course, suggests the Ottawa newsletter, would be another one-year extension to the basic banking law, since by then "the government might be in the mood for a bolder approach."

The charters of the commercial banks are renewable every 10 years when the Bank Act, which sets out what the chartered banks can and cannot do, is revised by Parliament after public hearings before the Banking and Commerce Committee of the House of Commons. This public review of the banking law before a parliamentary committee is unique with Canada, and has resulted in banks and banking keeping pace with the changing and expanding financial and economic needs of the public. In June of 1964, however, when the government was awaiting the report of the Royal Commission on Banking and Finance, the legislation and the charters were extended without change for one year.

Because there have been so many new developments—more new companies and new financial services have been introduced in the last five years than at any time in the past three de-CADES—it was expected that most of the recommendations of the Porter Report would be adopted. But the government's proposals are noteworthy mainly for their omissions—particularly for the failure to remove the out-dated six per cent ceiling on bank interest charges and to extend federal regulations to all institutions carrying on banking business.

The Porter Royal Commission stressed that, in the public interest, the six per cent ceiling must come off bank loans. It may not be apparent but it is nonetheless true that the ceiling penalizes bank customers, both depositors and borrowers. Canadians have about $9 billion on deposit in some 12 million personal savings accounts. The rate of interest paid on these savings cannot be raised so long as the ceiling limits the earnings of these funds when they are put out on loan.

On the other side of the ledger, since there is keen competition for the business of the good-risk borrower, removal of the ceiling would not raise his borrowing costs. However, it often happens that the business of the small poor-risk borrower has to be worth more than six per cent to the lender to be worthwhile, and when a bank cannot accommodate this person he must go elsewhere and pay a great deal more.

In economic terms the six per cent ceiling on bank loans is out-dated. It should not be permitted to remain a sort of political sacred cow.

Rain Won't Slow Traffic With New Water Repellent

OTTAWA (CP)—With a new silicon water repellent developed by a National Research Council chemist, you may soon be able to drive full speed on a crowded highway in an otherwise blinding rainstorm with your windshield wipers turned off—and still have good visibility.

Dr. D. F. Stedman of NRC's division of applied chemistry originally developed the water repellent for use on aircraft windshields as a safety measure. Now, after 24 years of research and development, the product is stirring real interest among airlines and can be produced commercially for the motorist.

Dr. Stedman demonstrated the repellent applied to his own car. It worked in both a light, misty rain and in a torrential downpour simulated by spraying water under pressure from jets mounted in front of the car's hood.

Without the repellent on the passenger's side of his windshield, visibility first became blurred in the rain and then completely obscured under a heavy downpour of water. But on Dr. Stedman's treated side of the windshield, visibility remained clear. Drops of rain water hitting the windshield literally exploded on contact with the repellent and flew off in millions of tiny particles, leaving the glass clear and seemingly dry.

The windshield wipers were not operated during the demonstration.

PEEN WITH GLASS
The repellent is a complex chemical compound with an appearance similar to black shoe polish. Applied to glass and rubbed briskly, it fuses with the glass in a tough film 1-10,000,000 of an inch thick. It is barely visible.

It can be applied without special technical skill or equipment. And it outlasts washing to remove sand, mud, salt, or "other indignities" in which windshields are subjected," the NRC said. Dr. Stedman put an application on his car last September and it remained effective through Ottawa's rigorous and dirty winter. He restored it in mid-April.

He first became interested in the effects of water on glass windshields and means of repelling rain in the 1940s after reading reports of a number of aircraft crashes in which planes struck mountain tops in heavy rain storms.

Water on a slanted glass surface has a prismatic effect on the line of vision through it, tending to deflect true light lines. A pilot may be certain he is clearing a mountain top when in fact the top only appears to him lower than it is.

In one test with an ICAF F-86

jet fighter, the nose of the aircraft was not visible to the pilot through an untreated part of the windshield in a heavy rain storm, but through the treated area the pilot had two miles' vision.

AVERTED DISASTER
"This flight would have ended in disaster except for the repellent which allowed safe flight and landing despite a torrent of rain," Dr. Stedman said in an NRC paper on use of the repellent for aircraft windshields.

After one major airline had a landing accident in a rainstorm at a runway in Vienna recently, it asked for detailed information on the new NRC development.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Physician Cure And Learn Too . .

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

At the rate medical research is progressing, no physician dares to stop learning as fast as he can, and if all are like me, they frequently despair of keeping up with everything.

We go to meetings as often as possible, and we always come away with additional knowledge. For instance, there are a dozen or so things that I learned at a clinic yesterday. Some are rather technical, some philosophical, but there is one item in particular that seems to be of lasting value.

The speaker, Dr. Morris Weiss, was talking about the psychological aspects of treating physical diseases, and in the context he was using, it applied to a young patient with epilepsy, but it would also apply to a good many other chronic diseases, too.

Dr. Weiss didn't claim the observation was his own, but I think there's something to be said for passing along the ideas we learn from someone else. That's what I try to do each day. Certainly I don't claim to be an expert on all the things I discuss, but I try to share with readers the medical lore I accumulate from countless sources. I just make sure that my information is from reliable, not to say expert, sources.

Here's a bit of advice about the way a doctor can best guide a young epilepsy patient who understandably may be resentful at having fallen victim to that ailment, and is particularly rebellious at being told that he should avoid certain sports and should not drive an automobile.

Certainly if I were in the same position, I would feel resentful at having some such activity prohibited because of a condition which developed through no fault of my own. So what does a doctor say?

The advice is this: Explain what the disease WON'T do to him, instead of what it WILL do to him.

I'll not belabor the point. It can apply to a lot more things than medical problems, but I do think it applies especially to epilepsy. Or, no, maybe it doesn't. Maybe it's a rule of life for any of us who has a handicap. And when you get right down to it, which of us doesn't have one? Maybe not as bad a handicap as epilepsy, but don't we all have our handicaps, large or small?

Dear Dr. Molner: A few years ago my son had one removed. Now the other one is hemorrhaging. Is this bad and is there anything he can do? — MRS. C.T.Z.

Undoubtedly it is bad, but without knowing a great deal more about the case, I can't say anything further. Your son should consult an eye specialist without delay.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been married 16 years and have never been able to become pregnant. Tests show that I secrete a fluid that kills the male sperm. Can anything be done to correct the condition? — MRS. W.A.H.

This type of secretion can result from a chronic infection of the cervix. It is not unusual, either. Cauterization or coagulation of the infected area sometimes alters the secretions.

Another possibility worth considering is artificial insemination with your husband as the donor. The purpose would be to get the sperm past the secretion without coming in contact with it.

Sometimes infertility arises from an incompatibility of blood types, with the antagonistic factor present not only in the blood but also in the secretion. In this case, it can be in the sperm, but there's no way to overcome that specific form of difficulty.

OTTAWA REPORT

Shameful Charade Occurs In House

By PATRICK NICOLSON

Of all the proceedings of the present not very praiseworthy Parliament, the most shameful charade has been its handling of the newspaper and magazine dispute.

The nub of this highly significant issue was Clause 4 of Bill Number C-118, "to amend the Income Tax Act." Clause 4 relates to "limitation re advertising expense"; its significance is that it disallows as an expense in calculating a corporation's taxable income, all money spent on advertising in publications which are not at least 75 per cent owned by Canadians. The clause then specifically and paradoxically exempts two magazines which are widely regarded as U.S.A. giants camouflaged by a small maple leaf.

Backed almost unanimously by newspaper editors, many politicians representative of all political parties vehemently protested against the government's imposition of a discriminatory tax in the hypothetical event that any foreigners buy a Canadian newspaper.

UNFAIR TO DISCRIMINATE
While this specifically is shocking, the broader implication of this Bill is that Canadians now accept the proposition that the government may create a subordinate class of Canadian citizens—personal or corporate—against whom punitive taxation may be levied whilst exempting their favored siblings.

Thus it came about that, at about 3:25 p.m. on Friday, June 25, New Democrat Stanley Knowles spoke for a majority of MPs when he introduced a procedural amendment which would have referred this controversial clause back to the committee of the whole House. Friday normally sees a thin attendance in the Commons; anticipating a vote on such a move that day, I had counted the House half an hour after the 11 a.m. opening: merely 34 Liberals versus 28 MPs of all other stripes were present—out of a membership of 263. By 3:25 in the afternoon, no doubt the weekend train for Quebec and Air Canada planes for the West and the Maritimes had taken away, as usual, many free-roving MPs, leaving a mere handful to carry on parliamentary business. House Leader George McInnis no doubt feared that a noisy vote would achieve and reveal under these circumstances, and be at once adjourned the debate to postpone the vote.

So it was on the following Monday, after 5 p.m., when the vote was called, leaving ample time for the weekenders to return to the capital. All opposition parties would vote against the minority government and hence at full strength could defeat the measure. This would not only halt the Liberals' liberal curb on full freedom of the press; it would also, warned Finance Minister Walter Gordon, lead to the dissolution of parliament and an election.

WHERE WERE YOU?

Of 264 MPs who could have voted, only 180 did. The Liberals, supported only by two dissenting Socialists and two Independents, beat the rest of the House by 102 votes to 78, a majority of 24. But the Conservatives, who had so bitterly denounced this legislation, lacked no less than 35 of their number—ample to tip the balance on that vote. To my surprise I noted that even the chief Conservative whip, Eric Winkler, was not present for this foreseeable vote; further, he had failed to put on the ship to summon his MPs to Ottawa. The chief defectors were the Conservative MPs from the west, especially the "Diefenbaker cowboys" from the Prairies. If they had been present to vote with their chief, the government would have been defeated, and their leader would by now have plunged into the electioneering which seems to provide him with his happiest moments.

Why were the cowboys absent? Why did 35 out of the 41 Tory MPs duck the vote which could have overthrown the Pearson government? Do we now have government-by-blackmail? And is this all that the Conservative MPs can do to preserve the freedom of our press?

Tribe Of Nungs Top Fighters

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP)—Mr. Hin fights for two things: Pride and pay.

He is a Nung, one of the tribespeople who for centuries have fought as mercenaries in the wars of Indochina and China. They are rated in the same class as the famed Gurkhas of India.

Mr. Hin is the big chief of 600 Nungs who serve as bodyguards and strike troops in northwest South Viet Nam for the U.S. army's Special Forces.

Their generals are legendary among the Americans along the battlefield out here, who like them because they never panic in battle.

Most Nungs range from four feet 10 inches to five feet 3 inches in height and from 90 to 120 pounds in weight. They are paid an average of 2,500 piasters a month, about $31.

Mr. Hin, 28, is a giant Nung. He stands about six feet, very erect and keen eyed. As a sergeant major—the highest rating a Nung is allowed to reach—he gets 4,000 piasters a month, or about $52.

That may not sound like a lot, considering his responsibilities, but there are no deductions. It's all take home pay.

"I don't know how the other Nungs picked Mr. Hin, but he seems to serve also as their spiritual leader," said Major Richard J. Allen Jr., of Miami, Fla., a Special Forces officer now on his second year of voluntary duty here.

If a Nung is killed in action, his survivors are paid a year's salary as a death benefit, and his body buried in a communal cemetery here. The Nungs almost never leave their dead or wounded behind.

The Nungs represent a cross-section of the situation here in terms of both religion and experience. A few are Buddhists, a few Roman Catholics, but most are Confucianists. Many are veterans of the Vietnamese army, some served with the French against the Viet Minh, and one was a major with the Chinese Nationalists.

EARN PAY
Some Vietnamese in the strike forces get only 1,700 piasters a month, or about $23, resent the fact that the Nungs receive almost half as much again in pay. But few Americans feel the Nungs, considering their performance, are pampered.

Montreal POWs "Like Conquerors"

By JACK BRATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Many came awaking. They left as beaten men, returning to a beaten country. Today, 25 years later, most are enjoying the prosperity of their German homeland, some are back in Canada fitting comfortably into a world which has forgiven and almost forgotten.

For events have turned almost full cycle since that hot July 1, 1940, on the Montreal waterfront when the first Nazi supermen, looking more like conquerors than prisoners of war, arrived from Britain for the long internment. The war record at the time was certainly in their favor. One of the few prizes of the sagging Allies was this first bag of prisoners, mostly Luftwaffe flyers shot down over Britain.

There was the blonde officer who clattered down the gangway, the gleats of his jackboots ringing on the iron treads. Behind him followed a file of fellow airmen in field grey, surly and scowling.

When "strapped" from behind a security barricade to ask a question, the officer spat in contempt, the British Tommy's guard.

The British Tommy's guard—ing them said they had boasted the war would be over in another six weeks.

They were no longer arrogant on their departure from Halifax 64 years later. Without spirit, they faced a bleak future in a fatherland battered by war.

WANTED TO STAY

It was no trouble getting them to talk. A corporal said: "It is no good to leave this country. We could be happy here and make money if we stayed. There is nothing left for us in Germany—no job, no food, no nothing. I do not want to go back there."

In the years between their coming and going, it had been a unique experience for this country — thousands of men from the battlefronts and under tight restraint; occupiers; man-hunts; riots; killings; hair-raising adventure, most of it kept from the public by censorship.

By the end of the war, there were 51,385 German prisoners in Canadian camps, including four of Hitler's generals. They were housed in 15 camps in New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario and Alberta.

There were 600 escapes, but generally the prisoners were quickly rounded up. Some were killed resisting capture; the number was never announced. By the time the last prisoner contingent sailed on Dec. 24, 1946, 22 were missing. Of these, 10 had broken out, slip the German authorities, preferring to take their chances as fugitives in Canada rather than be repatriated.

In Passing

"Knock-kneed" girls usually are worse dancers than those with bow legs.—Hal Boyle. Not when it comes to dancing the Charleston, Hal.

That in some respects machines are smarter than people is by no means anything new. For almost a century there have been machines that can out-add people.

Girls who wear shorts so tight they could easily be blistered with a paddle should be.

An eminent sociologist says love and marriage are incompatible. He seems to be right to a considerable degree, as many a romance has been blighted by marriage.

Smile Boys, Best Style

SWAIGOUR, N.Z. (CP)—New Zealand gunners training for combat duty in Viet Nam have been advised to smile. The advice came from the governor-general, Sir Bernard Fergusson, who speaks from the experience of a notable war record in Southeast Asia during the Second World War.

Sir Bernard said his advice to the soldiers was to greet the people of Viet Nam with smiles. "I know this might sound silly to you, but I can assure you from my own experience that it works."

"So develop an idiotic grin. Whenever I have gone, I have found that smiling soldiers are greeted with smiles; scowling soldiers are met with scowls."

Campbell-Charest Wedding Of Interest To Okanagan

Standards of red and white gladiolus graced each side of the altar at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Kelowna, on Saturday, June 26, for the double-ring ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Rita Madeleine Marie Charest, of Kelowna, and Ronald Eugene Campbell, of Westbank. Rev. Father Smith officiated at the 1:30 p.m. wedding of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Camille Charest, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Campbell, all of Westbank.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a dress of French lace fashioned with a fitted bodice, long sleeves and a bateau neckline, scalloped and edged with pearls. Deep lace tiers forming the full skirt were draped to fall in a short train.

A pearl crown held the bride's scalloped veil of French tulle, designed in two tiers and falling to fingertip length, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis enhanced with rosebud streamers. Her jewelry consisted of her groom's gift of a gold cross and matching earrings.

For "something old" the bride carried a lace handkerchief from her grandmother, and for "something blue" she wore a blue garter.

The maid of honor, Miss Loretta Desnoyers, of Edmonton, bridesmaid Miss Sharon Kopp, of Peachland, and Miss Adeleine Donahue, of Glenora, and the bride's sister, Miss Yvonne Charest, as junior bridesmaid, were identically gowned in short sheath dresses of turquoise tulle, with short veils and matching shoes. They carried bouquets of turquoise-tinted carnations.

The two little flower girls, the bride's nieces, Miss Suzanne Zaidoo, of Swatara, and the groom's cousin, Miss Clare Ahm, of Vanderhoof, were charming in dresses of pink tulle with pink chiffon overlay, scalloped satin collars, satin headpieces to match, white gloves and shoes. They also wore the bride's gifts of gold heart-shaped pendants, and carried baskets of pink carnations.

Master Kevin Klute, the bride's nephew from St. Albert, Alta., smartly garbed in black trousers, white jacket and bow tie, proudly bore the wedding rings on a white cushion.

Ralph Ringle, of Kelowna, was the groomsmen, and ushering were the bride's brother, Paul Charest, of Westbank, Dennis Kennedy, of Westbank, and Robert Schneider, of Naramata. Each wore the groom's gifts of cufflinks and tie-pins.

Mr. Reginald Martin played the wedding music and accompanied Miss Patricia Haddad, who sang "Ave Maria," during the signing of the register.

A reception for 150 guests was held in the Elks Hall, where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a pink sheath dress topped with a lace duster in three-quarter length, a white hat and accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses.

The groom's mother chose a floral sash sheath in shades of brown and green, over which she wore a white duster.

she wore a beige duster, and to complete her ensemble she wore a hat combining the materials from a duster and dress, beige accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Pastel streamers and wedding bells were suspended over the places of honor at the bride's table, which was covered with a hand-crocheted white tablecloth, and centered with the four-tiered wedding cake, made by the groom's mother. Decorated in all-white by Mrs. H. Somerset, of Ojama, the cake was embedded in a swirl of white tulle, and topped with an ornament of two doves holding wedding rings, while from two wedding bells were suspended clusters of miniature red roses.

George Turner, of Kelowna, was the master of ceremonies, and a letter-telegram from Liam Smith, of Westbank, was unable to attend, contained the toast to the bride, which was read by an uncle of the bride, Gerry Bellefeuille, to which the groom made suitable response.

The best man proposed the toast to the bride, and was responded to by Mr. Schneider. Mr. Charest toasted the bride's mother, and Mr. Bellefeuille made response, while Mr. Kennedy proposed the toast to the groom's mother, responded to by A. M. Thompson, of Westbank.

Seven French girls blanketed the way to the surface today after 15 days of isolation in a cave 150 feet below ground near here.

The girls, wearing dark glasses, were driven to a nearby hotel to have a normal lunch and re-acclimate themselves to surface life after their isolation experiment.

Doctors had checked the girls' psychological and physiological reactions by remote control during the last two weeks, by telephone from a neighboring cave.

The women were told Sunday night the experiment was over, almost a day before it should have been, according to their reckoning. They spent the extra night in the cave to prepare for the bright lights of the world above.

CAREER WOMEN WITHOUT STICKS

BOSTON (AP) — Career women competing with men for the executive suite would do well to carry no sticks, save lipstick.

The advice was from Miss Joe Foxworth in a talk before the national convention of the Advertising Federation of America Tuesday.

She is president of the Advertising Women of New York and a vice-president and creative director of a New York advertising firm.

Presenting a code for the woman who wants to succeed in business, Miss Foxworth made the following points:

Thou shalt watch thy language: there may be gentlemen present.

(A lot of our current smart talk drifted up to polite society from the dock walkover, but when the girls start bandying it about it's particularly unsmart.)

Thou shalt not match martinis with the men.

(Some women can drink some men under the table... but a man under the table can still be dangerous.)

Thou shalt save thy sex appeal for after 5.

(Sex around the office is like alcohol on the highway.)

And Miss Foxworth added: Anyone who tries to follow the feminine mystique would be making a mistake.

WOMAN IS AMBASSADOR

QUEEN IS PHILOSOPHER
BUENOS AIRES (CP) — Brune Matel Carrazone, 22, will represent Argentina at the world beauty competition at Miami, Fla. She is a qualified school teacher and is currently studying for a degree in philosophy, as well as looking after the modelling chores required of her as Miss Argentina.

ANN LANDERS

All Some Females Want Is A Handsome Partner

Dear Ann Landers: I was undecided as to whether I should write to you or not in the classified section of this paper. You see, I have a slightly used by friend I'd like to get rid of. He broke his leg skiing last November and I can't get him out of my apartment.

The young man is 32, unmarried, handsome in a rugged, Irish way, 6 feet tall, a superb dancer, doesn't drink or smoke (too much) and he is a writer by profession. This is part of the problem. He writes checks on our joint account to which he has contributed nothing for over eight months.

When he broke his leg I made the horrible mistake of letting him move into the second bedroom. I would feel right about throwing him out in the street. An ideal solution would be to find him another home. I'm signing my name, and telephone number in the hope that someone will take this charming moocher off my hands—and I am not kidding.—MISS MURRYHILL.

Dear —: Sorry, I can't print your name and telephone number. First, it's against the rules of this column to put one reader in touch with another. Second, I'm afraid you'd be deluged with offers.

All some dames need to know is that a man is 6 feet tall, handsome and a superb dancer and they will try to grab him. In the knowledge that they can overlook his petty faults and turn him into an ideal husband overnight. So, Doll—no deal.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night a friend and I went to a studio to see a give-away show. Several people from the audience volunteered to compete for prizes. I was horrified when a woman who was about eight and a half months pregnant got up on the stage. She looked as if she was going to have twins for sure—maybe triplets.

The master of ceremonies said, "I hope you win something you can use in your condition."

Messages From Pope, Premier Marked Golden Wedding Day

RUTLAND — Mr. and Mrs. George Flegel of Rutland celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on June 29, and their family of two sons and six daughters were all here for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Flegel (the former Julia Horning) were married at Greyson, Sask., in 1915, where Mr. Flegel farmed for several years, later moving to Gladstone, Man. In 1940 they moved to Rutland where they have lived ever since.

A special mass was celebrated at St. Theresa's Church, Rutland, by Rev. Father George Hart. Special blessings were received from Pope Paul, and messages of congratulations were received from Prime Minister Pearson and Premier Bennett, and from many out-of-town friends.

A banquet and dance was held in the East Kellowa Hall, attended by 180 guests. Adam Flegel, of Rutland, a nephew, acted as master of ceremonies and proposed the toast to the happy couple, who were also recipients of many beautiful and valuable gifts.

Members of the family in attendance were their two sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flegel and family of Trail, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Flegel and their daughter Mooney, of Gladstone, Man.; their five married daughters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hoffart and family, and Mr. and Mrs. D. Campbell, and family, all of Regina; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Turner and Mr. and Mrs. Arne Rasmussen and family, of Kellowa, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Burns and family of Vernon. The sixth daughter attending was Miss Eve Flegel of Regina, Sask. From Toronto were Mr. Flegel's brother and sister-in-law, Mike Flegel, who had been best man at the wedding, and his wife. Also in attendance were two of Mrs. Flegel's sisters, and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. I. Lang and Mr. and Mrs. J. Cano and family, all of Regina, and a brother, Mr. P. Horning, also of Regina. Friends of the family from out of town attending were Mrs. Julia Lipinski and Dennis Young of Regina and Joe Strachan of Port Moody, B.C. During the evening Jack Hoffart was spokesman for the "in-laws" and his son Ronnie for the grandchildren, in extending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Flegel.

All Applicants Can Import Charolais Cattle - Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Every Canadian breeder who applied for a permit to import Charolais cattle from France got one, the department of agriculture said today.

A department spokesman was commenting on a claim by F. Rodney James of Lacombe, Alta., secretary treasurer of the Canadian Charolais Association, that the federal government is keeping the list of permit holders secret.

Mr. James was quoted by the Lethbridge Herald as saying "I think they are trying to keep the names of friends of influential persons hidden from the public."

The department said 14 applications from Canadian breeders were received for French Charolais following a government decision to allow them into the country.

Size of quarantine facilities at Grouse Mt. Que. limited the first shipment—to arrive this fall—to about 120 cattle. As a result applicants were restricted to a maximum of three cattle each. Some got one and some got two. The department said there is nothing political about the decision. At the same time the government is under no obligation to publish a list of the permit holders. Any Canadian citizen was free to seek a permit from the federal government and his privacy was respected. The government had a long-standing ban against the import of French livestock because of the fear of bringing over foot-and-mouth disease. However, the French government is taking strong measures to combat the disease and the ban was lifted with rigid safety precautions to prevent the disease being brought into Canada.

South African Students Face Row Over Decision To Invite Dr. King

CAPE TOWN (Reuters)—The National Union of South African Students today faced a controversy over a decision to invite American Negro leader Rev. Martin Luther King to open its 1966 congress in Durban.

It was announced at the opening session of this year's union congress here Monday night that the civil rights leader had received more votes than any other candidate.

Immediately after the announcement was made, 20 members of the congress called for a recount of the votes. Their spokesman, Chris Omsiel, said the nomination of King was a political gesture.

He said the matter should be reconsidered "as we know full well that the chance of him coming to South Africa are nil."

Cabbie Pulls Gun On Would-Be Robber

BOSTON (AP)—Boston cab driver Thomas Peddie, firing teargas pellets in the air, captured an 18-year-old youth who, he said, tried to rob him at knife-point Monday. Peddie said the youth robbed him of $30, then ran from the cab. Peddie said he followed in the cab, firing the pellet-shooting gun into the air, and cornered the youth in a vacant lot. Peddie said many Boston cab drivers have acquired the guns for protection.

Girls' Band Places Third

VERNON — Vernon Girls' Trumpet Band placed third in the Calgary Stampede Parade Monday, but won first place in the parade.

The Cranbrook Girls' Band was first, winning the T. Eaton trophy. Second place was won by a French Girls' Band which had travelled from Quebec.

When the Vernon Girls' Trumpet Band arrived in Calgary they played at the Mewata Park Stadium where the Rotary Club staged a giant barbecue. The band was also honored in playing a 17 block parade, one of the pre-stampede parades, one of the festivities Sunday.

The Vernon Girls' Trumpet Band will also play at one of the Calgary Hospitals today before returning home on Wednesday. The bus is expected to arrive in Vernon about 6 p.m.

VICTORIA MERRY-GO-ROUND

Not Really Traps To Nab Tourists

By JAMES K. NEWMY

VICTORIA — And now has come upon us, here, in your fair capital city, the season of the tourist swarm. Until Labor Day, life in downtown Victoria will be hectic, as the cash registers ring in those lovely fat American dollars. Even those who just cannot abide the United States have those dollars.

It's likely there's no place in the world that has so many tourists as this little town. Some unkind people call them tourist traps, but this is not really true, because the tourists don't have to be trapped unless they want to.

Making your way up and down Government street these days is really something. Men about the tourists to get them to take horse-drawn trolley rides, double-deck bus rides, trolley-car rides to the harbor, motorcycle rides, bicycle rides. Local residents curse as they must pass along behind a trolley-bus expecting that at any moment the horses will bolt, as they usually do once or twice a summer.

There's a place where you can see replicas of the English crown jewels, and another place where you can sit in an English train, reputed to have once carried Queen Victoria to Balmoral; there are water figures to be seen, and you can peer at fish swimming about in the sea, and there's a hilltop mansion called a castle and said to contain art treasures from Europe.

All this sight-seeing costs money, but the tourists don't seem to care; they spend their money and seem to have a fine time, though now and then one hears a grumble that a certain amount of gyping goes on, and this applies to some restaurants, too.

The Parliament Buildings are a sight to see.

STRAWBERRY SOCIAL — The Catholic Women's League council of St. Theresa's church held a successful strawberry social on the lawn at the church grounds on July 4. A quilt was sold in a contest during the afternoon, and was won by Mrs. V. Nash, R.R. 3. The proceeds of the social will go to the Calvary cemetery trust fund. The ladies wish to thank those who assisted at the affair, and those who supported it by their attendance.

RUTLAND — Playing at home on Sunday Lumberjacks evened the series with a hectic 16-13 win over the visiting Rutland Redcaps, in the second game of the SOK'M League playoffs. After the tightly played 40 opening game at the Rutland ball park last Sunday, the game at Lumberjacks was a surprise. There were not many errors, but a total of 30 hits were garnered off four pitching chuckers. Normally a hot day like Sunday would figure as a pitcher's day, but the reverse was the case. Rutland made a big upsurge in the top of the ninth, to make a fighting finish. Trail-167, they collected four timely hits and five walks off two tired Lumberjacks chucks, to push six runs across the plate, and had three runners on base, enough to tie the game, when the final out came, ending three and a half hours of baseball, of sorts. The third and final game will be played at Rutland's Centennial Park on Sunday, July 11 at 2 p.m.

DISPLAY ROOMS FOR WORLDWIDE VISITORS — To bring the pages of The Ambassador magazine to life each month, displaying the actual merchandise featured in both the editorial and advertising pages. Visitors can see the goods and get further information about it from The Ambassador's editorial staff. This display will change each month on publication date of the journal. Throughout the year categories of merchandise will include textiles, men's, women's and children's ready-to-wear, glass, china, cutlery, cosmetics, leather goods, furniture and furnishings, jewellery.

To provide a permanent Fabric Library of a representative samples from current ranges of leading British textile manufacturers. This ready-to-wear designers and executives, whether from this country or abroad, can get advance information about the types of fabrics in which they are interested, and where to go for more detailed buying information. Use of this Fabric Library will be restricted to maker-up manufacturers, and not open to the textile trade.

The Ambassador magazine reports monthly on international consumer goods from the trade point-of-view, and is circulated in 91 countries. Half of The Ambassador readers are retail executives, and the other half are manufacturers. Nearly 50 per cent of them are in Europe including the U.K.; 14 per cent U.S.; 12 per cent Japan; and the rest throughout the world including Iron Curtain countries. The editorial offices of The Ambassador contain a great deal of information about consumer goods availability and needs from all countries, and it is the purpose of the new display room service to make this information as accessible as possible to overseas and British visitors.

RUTLAND BUILDING PERMITS UP TO RECORD HIGH FOR QUARTER

RUTLAND—Building permits issued by the provincial building inspector for the Rutland district for the second quarter of 1965 reached the record figure of $618,943.

Largest item in this was the new elementary school on Mallard road, at a figure of $169,902. The new Japanese church on Highway 97, at $21,000 is the next highest. The balance is mainly dwelling, with a few commercial alterations and expansions such as the remodeling and enlargement of the old community hall into a builders supply store, and the new addition to the Rutland Variety Store, doubling its original size.

A year ago the figures for Rutland building for the first six months of 1964 totalled only $490,000.

Figures for the first three months of 1965 were $243,508, which gives a six months total of $861,511 which is only $258,000 short of the entire 1964 total of $1,119,511.

PETER'S PATER

with PETER MUNOZ

Minor baseball has taken a firm hold in this area and future prospects are hopefully bright. But it all hasn't been a smooth and easy proposition. For a few people it has been a tough road to travel. To provide the facilities and handle all the time-consuming details involved in its organization can be mighty frustrating when the going gets rough and the urge to throw in the towel comes to the fore in even the most determined. But the dedicated hang in there, in all categories, through Little Leagues, Babe Ruth, SOMM and Connie Mack.

Such an individual is Kelowna's Henry "Hank" Tostenson. The effort he has put into the Babe Ruth and Connie Mack operations, is now starting to bear fruit. In three years of ground work he has finally got the program off the ground and the calibre of the youngsters coming through the ranks is on the rise.

In the recent city Babe Ruth playoffs, both finalists played extremely fast ball. The last game, particularly, would have been a crowd pleaser, were there a crowd on hand to please. It was a tight 3-2 contest, only decided in the last inning... and featured some real sharp defensive play.

Yes, Kelowna's Babe Ruth baseball program is developing and it reaches the climax of its young life at the end of this month. This city has been chosen to hold the provincial play-off tournament for the 14 and 15 year old classification, from July 27 through 31.

Playing in the double knockout tourney will be teams from Victoria, New Westminster, Vancouver, Vancouver 1A, North Vancouver, Vancouver Island, an Interior club and Kelowna. The other Interior contender will be determined at an earlier tourney at Kamloops.

Twelve or 14 games will be played here with the opening contest at 8 p.m. July 27. An official ceremony with B.C. Babe Ruth organization and civic officials will precede the start. In the first draws, the two Vancouver clubs clash and Kelowna meets Victoria. Somewhere during the tournament, probably on the second night, the Kelowna city league Babe Ruth champion Lions will receive their trophy and presentations will be made to individual award winners.

Tostenson said the most critical need for the tourney is provision of sufficient billets for 130 out-of-town youngsters, coaches and managers. The city parks and recreation office is looking after this matter and anyone with room to spare at the end of the month is asked to phone them and make arrangements.

For boys 13 years old, a tournament is slated for Trail July 13 to 18. The Kelowna Babe Ruth all-stars are entered in the single knockout Interior event with the winner advancing to the B.C. final at the Coast.

Canadian Army Sharpshooters Off To Fast Start At Bisley

BISLEY, England (CP)—Canadian Army sharpshooters at the annual Bisley rifle shoot warmed to their work quickly Monday in spite of a cold wind, firing highest scores in two contests and second highest in another.

Sgt. Joe Daigle of the Royal 22nd Regiment shot a perfect 50 to win the Players Cup against about 500 other Commonwealth and British servicemen on opening day of the two-week shoot.

Capt. W. J. (Bill) Molnar of the 1st Battalion, Black Watch of Canada, tied for first with three other marksmen in the Kinnaird Trophy match, firing 34 out of a possible 35. A shoot-off for top place is scheduled for late today.

Cpl. Charles E. Hockett of the Black Watch shot second-highest score of 33 out of 35 in the Bisley Bullet competition behind four Britons who tied with 34. Based at Camp Gagetown, N.B. with the Black Watch, Hockett's hometown is Oshawa, Ont.

Pte. Henry (Hank) McKay, a Black Watch man from New Westminister, N.S., placed eighth in the Players Cup, although he fired eight bulls and two inners for a 48. Six shooters scored 49.

WON QUEEN'S MEDAL
Daigle, who comes from St. Charles, N.B., is 1963 winner of the Queen's Medal as top shot in the Canadian Army. He is competing at Bisley for the third time.

Molnar, from Fort Macleod, Alta., is 1964 Queen's Medal winner and shooting his second Bisley.

TOO SLOW, TOO DRAMATIC ON COURSE

Male Golf Pros 'Cry Babies'

NEW YORK (AP)—The male tournament golf pros are a bunch of cry-babies who play too slowly and over-dramatize their shots, says the new Women's Open Champion of the United States.

"Why do the men pros take five and six hours to play a round that the girls get over in three hours and a half?" Long-stemmed Carol Menn, repeated a question.

"The answer is simple—the girls don't lollygag. They just step up and hit their shots."

Miss Mann, 23, a professional golfer from Towson, Md., child of her masculine counterparts.

"I try to find some justification for the way they act—maybe it's all the money they play for, I tell myself, but sometimes it seems positively ridiculous. "Put them on a course where they have to hit two-irons or three-woods to a green and they yelp as if they had been stuck with an ice pick."

"WE NEVER COMPLAIN"
"Why the women play long irons and woods off the fairways all the time and never complain."

Carol said she sees no reason why the men should take almost twice as long to get around 18 holes.

"It's true the men's courses are longer, but we're hitting the same clubs to the greens they are. A men's course of 7,400 yards is equivalent to a women's course of 6,200, and remember, they hit fewer shots."

Royals Cut Down Leading Willows

Most of the damage was done in the first two innings of a closely played game at King's Stadium Monday night. Royal Anne Royals counted nine runs in their first two at bats and outdistanced Willows into the lead.

Royals' shortstop Ed Sehn rapped the biggest blow of the night in the top of the first, a two-run homer. Royals came out of the frame with a 4-0 lead.

Three muscled, a walk, two hits and a sacrifice fly did the trick. Royals wrapped up the victory in their next time at bat. Sehn again delivered their big blow of the second inning, a double. They tallied five times on four hits, three walks, a hit batsman and stolen base.

Willows managed only two more runs off starter and winner Ed Sehn. They picked up one in the fifth after Joe Weber tripped and scored on an error.

In the ninth, center fielder Jack Howard singled and scored on an outfield error. Royals meanwhile picked up their final two runs in the eighth. Joe Fisher's single and playing coach Nick Bulach's double were the only hits.

Young District Water Skier Tops U.S. Champ In Slalom

A 13-year-old Kelowna boy walked away with many of the prizes at the Washington State water skiing championships at Soap Lake, Washington, Saturday.

George Athans Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. George Athans, of Kelowna, who has been skiing competitively for three years, beat the United States men's champion barefoot slalom skier. He had to compete with men up to 32 years old for this prize which entails skiing barefoot behind a speeding boat.

In the junior boys' events, he took first prize for trick skiing, second for jumping, fourth in the slalom single ski, and placed first in the overall match.

Fred Schuler, George's instructor in Kelowna, said George is a natural skier. "It took me two years to train, he can master in half an hour. I think he has great potential."

His younger brother, Gregory, was also in the competition at Soap Lake, and he placed second in trick skiing.

Perry's Bang-Up One Night Job Shoots Twins Out In Front

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer
Jim Perry has started as many games as he did all of last year, completed as many games as he had in two years, and gained as many shutouts as he had in nearly three years.

And he did it all in one appearance Monday night. Perry also pitched Minnesota Twins into a 1-0 game lead in the American League, stopping Boston Red Sox 2-0 on seven hits for a sweep of a doubleheader. The Twins won the opener 6-2.

The start for the 28-year-old right-hander was his first since June 4, 1961, when New York Yankees battered him for six runs in one inning.

In other AL games, Chicago White Sox trimmed Cleveland Indians 3-1, Detroit Tigers shipped New York 8-4 after losing 7-2, Baltimore Orioles defeated Kansas City Athletics 7-4 and Los Angeles Angels downed Washington 5-2 before bowing 4-3.

EXTEND WIN STREAK
The Twins extended their winning streak to five behind Perry in the nightcap. The right-hander allowed only one Boston runner to reach third base. He got all the support he needed in the fourth inning when Bob Allison singled, stole second and came all the way home when catcher Mike Ryan threw the ball into center field.

Reds Eclipse Bungling LA

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati Reds have squeaked ahead of Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League lead.

But if New York Mets played only on Mondays, the Reds and Dodgers wouldn't even be in the race.

Catching in on a succession of wild throws, the Reds scored three times in the seventh inning Monday night and defeated the shipping Dodgers 1-4. That put Cincinnati into first place by two percentage points, dropping Los Angeles out of the top spot for the first time since May 4.

Meanwhile, led by the slugging of Shea Stadium's reigning idol, Ron Swoboda, the last-place Mets continued to work their Monday magic. Swoboda knocked across the first five runs of the holiday doubleheader with a pair of homers as the Mets downed Chicago Cubs 5-2 and 3-4.

Since losing to the Dodgers on opening day, the well-trenched trailblazers have won eight and tied one on Monday. Included in the unusual string is the 1-0 triumph at Cincinnati June 16—the night Jim Maloney of the Reds pitched a no-hitter for 10 innings—as well as three doubleheader sweeps.

PHILLIES WIN TWICE
And to prove they are not one-season wonders, the Mets won six of seven Monday starts last year.

Phillies made it eight victories in 10 games by knocking off Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1 and 6-3; Curt Flood's single in the 13th inning enabled St. Louis Cardinals to win their sixth straight, 3-2 over San Francisco Giants, and Walt Bond's squeeze bunt in the ninth brought in the run that gave Houston Astros a 3-4 decision over the slumping Milwaukee Braves.
